short

Signe is a solo pop artist who grew up dancing her heart out to ABBA, singing along to Sara Bareilles and falling in love with the lyrics of Billy Joel. These influences have manifested in her work to create a sound that is firmly grounded in the pop-sphere with thought provoking lyrics and combination of synth and real instrumentation that has you coming back for a second listen.

Signe is a solo pop artist who grew up dancing her heart out to ABBA, singing along to Sara Bareilles and falling in love with the lyrics of Billy Joel. These influences have manifested in her work to create a sound that is firmly grounded in the pop-sphere with thought provoking lyrics and combination of synth and real instrumentation that has you coming back for a second listen. A gifted dancer as well as a musician, it was her love of movement that pushed her to explore more danced based tracks after years of writing piano ballads with an acoustic based sound. Keeping the poetic storytelling often associated with ballads, Signe infused her sound with more rhythm and bass to create tracks she could move too. A world traveler whose roots are in Chicago Illinois, Signe is currently living in Paris. She released her debut EP "Isn't it Familiar?" this past January
